

The Café du Jour

By Sam Bilbo

This issue's Café of the Day goes out to Toast located right outside Cohasset. This great little diner is right on Nantasket Beach. This place is perfect for those Saturday and Sunday mornings after a long night of drinking soda, or just for bringing family and friends out for a delicious quality and affordable breakfast.

The waiters are extremely nice and the atmosphere is entertaining, full of little funny signs to read if the conversation goes quiet. Plus it is a no cell phone zone for all those text-aholics and constant business caller: leave them off or face the consequences: just enjoy the meal and the company of your loved ones. A personal favorite that I suggest everyone try is the Wave: it comes with three baby pancakes, toast, hash browns, eggs prepared any way you like them, and your choice of bacon or sausage for only $6.95. Or if you're a French toast type, try the Burnt Toast. Toast is a breakfast only diner and it closes at 2pm., so don't sleep in too late! Swing on by Toast for an excellent meal only your mom could match. This is Sam Bilbo saying eat up Cohasset.
